

APPENDIX

Abstract of the Disclosure

~~ABSTRACT~~

The present invention relates to a device ~~which has been particularly conceived~~ for collecting gravel and/or calculi expelled through the urethra, for example from a renal patient with kidney stones. ~~The object of the invention is to achieve that said~~ calculi and/or gravel can be collected comfortably and efficiently when they are expelled while urinating, wherever the patient may be, and to learn the approximate volume of gravel expelled, ~~and all this with a device that the~~. The patient can comfortably and discretely carry the device with him or her at anytime and in any place.